

Call for participants!

Care relationships between support staff and adults with a learning disability in social care residential settings in England

1. What is this study about?

We want to hear support staff's views on various aspects of their relationships with adults with a learning disability and what makes them positive.

2. Who can take part?

- Paid support staff, for example support or care workers or personal assistants, supporting adults with a learning disability.
- Senior or management staff may also be eligible.

3. What settings?

- You must be based at a long-term social care residential setting, for example a care home, or in domiciliary care in England.
- The setting may be managed by local authorities, or the voluntary/charity/third sector, or the private sector, but not the NHS.

4. What will I have to do?

Complete a short questionnaire assessing demographics and your eligibility and, if you are eligible, take part in an interview lasting around one hour.

5. Will I get paid?

If you take part in the interview, you will receive £10 for your time. If any other costs incur, these will be reimbursed to you.

6. How do I join?

To participate or for any questions, please contact: Georgios Mamolis, PhD Candidate in Applied Psychology, Tizard Centre, University of Kent, E: gm518@kent.ac.uk

Supervisors:

Dr Paraskevi (Vivi) Triantafyllopoulou, E: P.Triantafyllopoulou@kent.ac.uk & Professor Karen Jones, E: k.c.jones@kent.ac.uk

Gm518@kent.ac.uk

p.triantafyllopoulou@kent.ac.uk & k.c.jones@kent.ac.uk