

Diversity of Evidence

31st May 2022

Centre for Reasoning symposium

Keynes College Lecture Theatre 2, Canterbury Campus, University of Kent, and online

Organised by Alexandra Trofimov and Jon Williamson on behalf of the Methodological Innovation Network Around the North Sea (MINANS)

- 13.00 Welcome
- 13.05-14.05 Elena Rocca (Oslo Met). Monitoring the safety of medicines and vaccines in times of pandemic. Practical, conceptual, and ethical challenges in pharmacovigilance. (Online)
- 14.15-15.45 Session on Evidential Pluralism in the Law
Michael Wilde (Kent): Evidential Pluralism and the proof paradoxes.
Yafeng Shan (Kent): Evidential Pluralism and legal mechanism.
Alexandra Trofimov (Kent): Why Evidence-based law should embrace Evidential Pluralism.
- Coffee*
- 16.15-17.15 Rosa Runhardt (Leiden). Limits to Evidential Pluralism: Multi-Method Large-N Qualitative Analysis and the primacy of mechanistic studies. (Online)

Registration is free but compulsory.

To register please email Alexandra Trofimov, A.Trofimov-692@kent.ac.uk

Timings are UK time (GMT+1).

The symposium is hybrid with remote talks and an in-person session on EP in the Law.