

Luke Shoveller is a PhD student in Sociology at the University of Kent. His ESRC-funded PhD research project entitled 'Deindustrial Culture in the Garden of England: Industrial heritage, aesthetic and legacies in the Kent Coalfield' focuses on the legacy of industrial closure in Kent, and the role of industrial 'heritage' in ongoing processes of deindustrialisation and post-industrial regeneration in the Kent Coalfield region.